VA Clinics Closed Due to Hurricane Helene

Dublin, Ga. – The Carl Vinson VA Medical Center in Dublin, Georgia, has announced that its Albany, Brunswick, Macon, Milledgeville, Perry, Tifton, and Warner Robins community clinics are closed today in anticipation of severe weather from Hurricane Helene. Albany and Tifton clinics are closed now, and the remaining clinics will close at noon today.

All veterans with appointments will be contacted to re-schedule their appointments. All clinics are expected to re-open on Monday, Sept. 30, at regular hours; however, VA officials encourage all stakeholders to periodically review the Dublin VA internet and Facebook sites for the latest information.

If changes to hours or appointments are expected, veterans will be contacted without delay. Veterans with appointments will also be updated through email and phone calls. The main campus at Dublin is expected to remain open and observe regular hours.
